Support Structure

To ensure a high standard of finish, it is essential that the supporting structure is accurate and sound. Additional supports are required at positions of light fittings. Airconditioners/ ventilating equipment are not to be supported from ceiling grid and must have their own support system.

Care should be taken to ensure that Siniat vinyl ceiling tiles are not dropped or subjected to rough handling. Siniat vinyl ceiling tiles should be stored in a dry area. The stacks must be packed on suitable timber supports, maximum 400mm apart and off the ground (supports maximum 100 mm from ends).

Siniat Plasterboard consists of an aerated gypsum core firmly bonded on both sides with a special plasterboard liner. These characteristics of gypsum provide plasterboard with outstanding advantages over other flat sheet materials.
